Message from the Dean/Director

Happy Spring! I hope you all had a great time off to refresh, rejuvenate and maybe even study a little. Hopefully it was a brief breath of fresh air that will give you the strength to push onto semesters end.

Dr. Colucci, Dr. Kinser, Dr. Howard and I had the recent opportunity to review the (almost) final plans for our new School of Nursing building. It will have a student lounge with sofas and tables in it to hang out in between classes. It will also have several small meeting rooms which can be used to schedule student groups and a computer lab on site. Some days it seems like it will never happen, but it will be an exciting reality sooner than we think.

We are also hoping to work with Cal State University Fullerton to provide an on-site ADN to MSN program. We currently have their ADN to BSN program here (talk to Dr. Colucci for more details) but the MSN degree would take the possibilities to a new level for our graduates and the community.

I would like to thank Dr. Howard and the MEC faculty and students for an outstanding visit from Dr. Tanner of the NLNAC as well as Dr. Rowe and all faculty for their work on the recent VN Program Records Survey. These all too frequent events are a lot of work for your faculty, but help to ensure that each of you receive the quality of education you have at RCC.

Please see Dr. Tutor, your faculty, and Department Chairs if you are struggling – it's not too late to turn things around.

My door is open,
Sandy Baker, DNP, RN
Dean, RCC School of Nursing

Message from the Associate Dean/MEC

Greetings from MEC!!

The spring semester is in full swing and Spring Break has come and gone. Hope everyone is having a great time learning and caring for patients. We were busy hosting the NLN who came to visit on March 4. The visit went well and Dr. Sharon Tanner was very complimentary of MEC and was impressed with our students!

We will be having a group from one of our grant funding sources, Song-Brown, complete a site visit on May 2. They have provided funding for additional students and faculty.

Internet is in the process of being installed on student computers and we are also adding a "fee-for-print" service that will be connected to student computers. We are sooo excited!!

Countdown to summer is on its way! Stay focused, set your goals, and you will be successful!

Hang in there!

Message from the ADN Chair

Happy April! I believe Spring is truly here, and not just by the calendar. Flowers are blooming, pollen is flying, and nursing students are looking forward to Spring Break ☺. Yes, you do deserve a break, and you should take some time during the week off to truly relax, enjoy friends and family, and come back refreshed. Most, if not all of you, will have been through exam two before the break. If you are having difficulty with exams, don't wait any longer. Be sure to make an appointment with our Student Outcomes Specialist, Dr. Tutor. You may be amazed about some of the simple changes you can make in study habits and test preparation you can do to improve your outcomes. Don't forget as well, the simulation lab in LS206 is open Monday through Friday for your practicing pleasure. Whether you want to practice basic skills or physical assessment, the simlab is the place to be. Nursing 7 faculty and the simlab assistant is there for you. Take advantage of it! Have a great break, and good luck with the second half of the semester.

Anita G. Kinser, EdD, RN-BC
ADN Department Chair

VN PROGRAM NEWS: APRIL 2008

Here it is Spring Break already and that means it's mid-semester. Wow! Time sure moves relentlessly forward and usually that's a GOOD thing. For students, it means you are moving closer and closer to your goals. For teachers, we grow and learn each day in our efforts to provide the best possible learning opportunities.

The full-time VN students carry a very heavy load of theory and clinical in the spring semester, 12 units of intermediate medical-surgical nursing and three units of mental health nursing. Along with development of Nursing Care Plans, preparing for the home health visit, and writing the objectives for numerous ancillary health department observations, learning the academic portion is a challenge. Through all the hard work, the students have become stronger as their theory base broadens and they can apply the knowledge to client care. Happily, the VN license becomes more tangible by the day and we count the 16 weeks left until Pinning Ceremony on August 7 at 3:45pm in Landis Auditorium.

In February we received notice from the Board of Vocational Nursing and Psychiatric Technicians (BVNPT) that the Program Records Survey for continued accreditation was due April 15. We've been busy since then providing evidence of compliance with BVNPT regulations and writing the accompanying narrative. The document is in the final stages of preparation and we anticipate it will be mailed to the BVNPT prior to Spring Break.

A respite from the demanding pace is just what the “primary healthcare provider prescribed” (That’s NCLEX language for “what the doctor ordered.”) and Spring Break fits that perfectly. We on the VN Program faculty team trust that you are seizing the opportunity for a vacation, even if it is just a short one, from your daily responsibilities. We hope you take good care of yourself by balancing work, study, rest, exercise, and play, including doing something special for yourself.

Sincerely,
Phyllis L. Rowe, DNP, RN, ANP
Associate Professor, Nursing
Assistant Chair, VN Program

VN Class

Spring Break 2008! We made it thru the bruising of the “ego” during quizzes, first round care plans, dosage calculations with SAFE DOSE, and first round clinicals of Med-Surg. We are at the top of the hill and can see the “other side.” It is now a balancing act to make sure we don’t misstep and fall. I hope all of you are doing well. If you are riding that fine line of the grading scale, you still have time to improve on your next test.

“When you have exhausted all possibilities, remember this; you haven’t!”

Robert H. Schuller

Readjust your study habits, stay focused and don’t give up! Ask for help from instructors, Nursing 7, Dr. Tutor—S.O.S. You can do it!! Your “pin” is waiting for you to be there, on stage, during that hot August day 2008.

“Never let a problem become an excuse.”

Robert H. Schuller

Hopefully all of us will come back either fully rested and rejuvenated, or at least caught up on schoolwork and family time or a little of both.

Melva Cooksey, VN
VN Vice President
SNO VN Vice President.

Nursing 1

We are at the half way point in the semester and the Nursing 1 students are all hanging in there. We just finished a very crucial hurdle in our curriculum, dosage calculation and medication administration. We had the opportunity to administer meds to our patients for the first time the week before spring break. We know it was a very hectic week not only for us students, but for our teachers as well. Recently, we had the opportunity to tour a long-term care facility near the campus. Many of us were actually able to assist some of the residents with a dance exercise activity that was taking place while we were there. It was a heartwarming experience, one that gave many of us a clearer perception of the long-term care facility as compared to the acute care setting. Several of the Nursing 1 class officers had the opportunity to attend a meeting held on March 31st between the RCC nursing faculty and representatives from all of the hospitals where the RCC nursing students are doing their clinical portions. Everyone extended their deep thanks and appreciation for the opportunity to work with these facilities.

Everyone enjoy the week off during spring break.

Tony Barraza, Nursing 1
President

Nursing 2 (City Campus)

We are half way through our semester and Spring Break is here! I hope all of us took a much-needed break for a few days but don't forget to study during this time too. Remember to get some sleep over the break and come back revved up and ready to go! With only 8 weeks left of the semester it will be June before you know it and we can celebrate the end of another great learning experience.

Hang in there everyone. We will be in 3rd semester before you know it! Have a great Spring Break!

Paula Stacey, Nursing 2

Nursing 2 (March Education Center)

Greetings from Nursing 2 MEC. We are halfway through our second semester. It is amazing how different this semester is from Nursing 1. We are exploring new areas of nursing. It is amazing to see there is more out there than Geriatrics. Some have decided that Newborn Nursery is something they would enjoy while others would give their left arm not to have to return to Labor and Delivery. We hope you are all doing as well as we are. We part with a little humor. Enjoy!

You might be a nurse if.....

You hope there's a special place in Hell for the inventor of the call light

You can drink a pot of coffee and still go to sleep in the morning.

You believe every patient needs TLC: Thorazine, Lorazepam, and Compazine.

Your sense of humor seems to get more warped each year.

You believe the definition of stress is when you wake up screaming and you realize you haven't fallen asleep yet.

You know the phone numbers of every late night food delivery place in town by heart. Everything only happens all at once.

You've ever been telling work stories in a restaurant and had someone at another table throw-up.

You write a patient report and have to translate it to medical records because of all the acronyms in it.

You notice that you use more four-letter words now than before you became a nurse.

You look in your closet and can't find anything non-medical to wear.

You believe all bleeding stops...eventually.
You don't get excited about blood loss unless it's your own.
You've ever said, "Why am I here?"
When called for orders, the MD says, "Write them yourself; you know the patient better than I do."
You've ever had to contend with someone who thinks constipation for 4 hours is an emergency.
You refer to motorcyclists as organ donors.
You can eat a candy bar with one hand while performing digital stimulation on your patient with the other hand, and it doesn't bother you.
You believe Tylenol, Advil, or Excedrin provides a large part of your daily calorie intake requirements.
You've ever held a 14-gauge needle over someone's vein and said, "Now your going to feel a little stick."
You've ever had a patient with a nose ring, a brow ring and twelve earrings say, "I'm afraid of shots."
You can keep a straight face when a patient responds, "Just two beers."
You stare at someone in utter disbelief when they actually cover their mouth to cough.
You think "awake and stupid" is an appropriate choice for mental status.
You believe in the aerial spraying of Prozac.
You firmly believe that "too stupid to live" should be a diagnosis.
You have to leave the patient before you begin to laugh uncontrollably.
You've ever had a patient look you dead in the eye and say, "I don't know how that got stuck in there."

Greetings to all! The spring semester is very exciting as we have finished our second test and are moving forward. By now, all students have been introduced to the basics of starting IVs and taking blood specimens, yet not everyone has been introduced to the reality of schizophrenia and borderline personality disorder. However, by the end of this semester, we'll all know how to 'think like a psychopath' and how to work a butterfly needle like a charm!

While focusing on our studies, our class is also actively participating in fundraisers to secure the finances for our pinning ceremony. We're wrapping up our School of Nursing shirt fundraiser. Thank you to all the students, faculty, friends, and family who purchased a shirt to support our class and promote our program! We also have an upcoming event on Thursday, April 24th at the Ruby's in the Tyler Galleria. If you dine there with a flyer for our class, Ruby's will donate 20% of your bill to Nursing 3. Our fundraising efforts are going well, largely thanks to the support of other semester classes. We hope that in turn all the semesters (and LVN!) classes will let us know when you're having a fundraiser so that we can pitch in and help you too.

I hope that everyone enjoys their Spring Break. Take it as a chance to relax and spend time with your family and friends. Sometimes we need a little time away from our Lewis and our Keltner to remember why we got into this program after all.

Sarah Lassek, Nursing 3
President, City Campus

Nursing 3 (March Education Center)

Whoooo Hooooo! Here we are now coming up on the halfway point of the semester and on the downhill slope. Most of my classmates have become IV certified, cared for at least two patients or finished their Psych rotation. We've been hanging IV's, piggy backs, drawing blood, plus all that other stuff we learned. I'm hearing great things about Psych and can't wait for my rotation to start. Gotta put all that good theory to practice, although I've recently seen a few "Psych" patients in the ER....that was interesting!

For all you N1 and N2 students, N3 is the best so far! Our topics are more focused and our critical thinking skills are becoming honed. Our instructors are challenging us to be the best that we can be, and doing a great job of it. N4, you guys ROCK! I can't wait to be where you are. You're almost to the finish line and I envy you all.

I want thank all my wonderful classmates for your support and faith in me as your president. We've come a long way since N1. We're working well with City N3 and are working hard to become a strong and cohesive class. Working together, helping and encouraging each other will bring us even closer. I'm proud to be the Prez! Well, one of them anyway.

So, stay focused. Not much longer now. I can almost see that pot at the end of the rainbow.

Sandra Brock, Nursing 3
President, MEC

Nursing 4 (City Campus)

We are one more month closer to graduation and are really looking forward to Spring Break! We've had our second test and are looking forward to our third. Each test (hopefully) brings us closer to saying goodbye to Nursing School and hello to more responsibility and expectations!

Nursing 4 is great! It's difficult, but great. We're stressed and losing sleep, but at least it's not because we're working on care plans all night! So far this semester, we've had a lot of interesting experiences that have prepared us in becoming compassionate and competent nurses.

I hope everyone gets some good study time in for the following exams! Hopefully, we will be able to have SOME fun this semester between study and class time!

Cynthia Ortiz, Nursing 4
President, City Campus

Nursing 4 (March Education Center)

It was hard for me to think about what to write to all my fellow nursing students. After a very emotional week, I have come to realize that all I can say is... WE ROCK. What we have accomplished is so amazing and inspiring. Before I started the nursing program I thought life was going to be put on hold for the next two years. Well, as I'm sure many of you can agree...life only gets crazier! Just stop and think about where you are right now. We are graduating in two months from one of the top nursing programs in the state. We pushed through the hard times and are almost to the top of that steep hill. There have been people in our program who have suffered losses, gotten married, moved from home, taken care of their children and families, experienced financial hardships, and so much more. I am so proud of us! This only shows that we are strong people who can get through anything. It brings me to tears to think about separating from such a great group of people. We have become a family. When I'm going through hard times I know that when I go to class, I am in a room filled with people who care and people who will put their arm around you when they see that a friend is sad or stressed. I'm not only speaking of myself when I say this. I can see it. I can see the friendships that have been created. I know I couldn't have gotten through this program without all of you. We pull each other through this and give each other encouragement. This semester is moving quickly and many of you (including myself) might be feeling stressed, excited, tired, etc. Just remember that the end is near and think about all the friendships you've made. We will all be separating in a couple months. Make the best of the time we have left. Now is the time to be positive and encourage one another to keep pushing through. I am just so proud of all of us!!

The more you give, the more you get
The more you laugh, the less you fret.

The more you do unselfishly
The more you live abundantly.

The more of everything you share,
The more you'll always have to spare.

The more you love, the more you'll find
That life is good and friends are kind.

For only what we give away,
Enriches us from day to day.

Hello from SNO.

It's going by quickly. This semester is half over. June will be here before you know it, and for N4 students it will be graduation time. The VN students, who will be graduating a little later in the summer, must also be very excited. We all have to "dig in" and study hard and we will all get there. N1 and new VN students, remember to look towards your big brother/ big sister, or an instructor for help or mentoring if you are still feeling overwhelmed. N2 and N3, I know that you have had a lot of new skills thrown at you. Just remember to practice them in Nursing 7 and the Sim lab. I spent a lot of time in the skills lab. It definitely has helped me in clinical and with passing my Clinical Competencies so far. Spring Break will give us a chance to slow down and get a little rest. I'm going to make the most of it. I hope that the rest of you get a chance to as well.

In SNO we recently sent three students to the NSNA Conference in Grapevine, Texas. Sarah Lassek, who is the SNO Vice President, sat on the National Resolutions Committee for the NSNA. Monday March 31 was the Joint Student/Faculty/Clinical Agency Advisory meeting. It was nice to see all of the class representatives there. SNO is hosting a blood drive with the Red Cross on April 30. The Nursing Alumni Reception will be held in The Hall of Fame on May 8. Those are few things that are happening with SNO. I hope that everybody is doing well and maybe I will see some of you at the meetings.

Take care and good luck,
Rick Hayatian, Nursing 4
SNO President

NSNA Letters

The NSNA Conference was awesome. Of course it was easy to enjoy once I got over my American Airlines flight being canceled. I was re-routed to a United flight, which was also canceled due to damages sustained hitting a large bird (probably a goose, and it faired far more damage than the plane), and finally being patted down twice by airport security (do I have terrorist written on my forehead?).

The Gaylord Texan resort was a beautiful place with many amenities. A large hotel, with atriums, scenic walkways, and restaurants all under a glass covered dome. The atmosphere created by the thousands of student nurses from all over the country was enthusiastic and very contagious! All were excited to be there, networking, gathering information, and meeting many new people. Everyone should experience at least one conference before graduation.

I was surprised to hear that up to 80 percent of nurses aren't affiliated with their professional organization. We need to be involved if we want our voices to be heard. We can't just sit back and let others do things and make decisions that effect us all and then complain about it. Every nursing specialty has one such as AORN for OR nurses, and ENA for Emergency Room Nurses, just to name a couple. Along with giving us a voice they provide information pertinent to our specialty.

The NCLEX review was relatively easy, as we've been well prepared by our outstanding RCC Nursing staff. The lectures I went to covered many topics such as, Malpractice, Oncology Nursing, Nephrology Nursing, Acing Nursing School Exams,

Hypnosis to lessen Test Anxiety, Career Choices, Pharmacology Made Easy, and Complementary and Alternative Medicine, to name a few. Unfortunately, I wasn't able to go to all the lectures I wanted. But I did come home with a plethora of information to sift through from hospitals, schools and publishers, as well as pens, post-it pads, nursing magazines, etc...

I was also lucky to slip in a few hours as a delegate. I heard several resolutions written by nursing students in an effort to make things better for mankind, as well as the arguments against them. Some were very passionate and animated about their beliefs. It was a great experience and I feel privileged for the opportunity. I was involved in the first ever electronic voting, complete with immediate results. What a great experience.

Sandy Brock, Nursing 3 MEC
SNO, Secretary

I was fortunate enough to attend the NSNA Conference in Grapevine, TX as a member of the NSNA Resolutions Committee. I was on the committee with four other students from around the country: Michelle Rogers from Florida (committee chairperson), Tanya Taylor from Ohio, Larry Slater from Alabama, and Karen Ritter, who happened to be from California as well. I had a great time. I experienced the conference from the viewpoint of a national position, which really opened my eyes to the opportunities available for all students at a state and national level.

While there, I spoke with Cathleen Schultz, the president-elect for the National League for Nursing; Rebecca Patton, the president of the American Nurses Association; Carol Watson, the president of the American Organization of Nurse Executives; Diane Mancino, the executive director of the National Students Nurse Association (NSNA); Judith Tyler, the director of program for the NSNA; Jennifer Davis, the student president of the NSNA; Jim Edmunds, the president of the California Nursing Students Association; and Florence Huey, the 1968-1969 student president of the NSNA. I was able to speak with them about their experiences and gain advice for both my experience as a nursing student as well as my future as a nursing professional.

Perhaps my favorite moment happened when each committee person was called and introduced by name and school affiliation. As I stood and 'Riverside Community College, Riverside, California' was read, a woman who was sitting behind me took my hand. I leaned down to hear her say, "I absolutely love your dean! You will have to tell Sandy I said hello! She makes meetings so fun and interesting!" I replied, "Sure, but I am sorry, what is your name?" She smiled and said, "Ruth Terry, from the Board of Registered Nursing." Later, I was informed that she was the Executive Officer of the California Board of Registered Nursing. I think our faculty said it best when they said, "Think of her as the one who signs your license."

Messages from Our Advisors

I attended the 56th NSNA Year End Conference in Grapevine, TX and like Sandy and Brandy suffered the trials and tribulations of American Airlines and their flight cancellations finally arriving on Friday afternoon instead of Thursday. The meetings were excellent as usual even though I missed the Opening Ceremony and other events until mid-afternoon on Friday. I attended the plenary session, exhibit hall, Foundation auction, and faculty sessions. I also attended student sessions on alternative and complementary subjects such as relaxation, visualization, guided imagery; using hypnosis to lessen anxiety, and “Will Duct Tape Cure My Warts (the answer is maybe yes and maybe no). I always learn so much at conference as I am sure the students do. It was very nice to meet with other faculty from across the country and especially our colleagues in Orange County (Golden West and Saddleback). Both Saddleback and Golden West had students who were elected to national office. It was with pride that I watched the Resolution Committee at work in the House of Delegates and Sarah Lassek performing her duties so admirably. If you get an opportunity to attend a conference please go. The next conference is the CNSA conference that will be held in October in Universal City. That brings it almost to our backdoor so to speak.

Thank you to all the Class and SNO officers for all the work that you do. Elections of SNO officers for Fall will be coming up very soon so if you have an interest in running for a position, please talk to the current officers to find out the duties. Also, the Blood Drive will be April 30th with sign up of donors being held on April 23, 24, 25, 28, and 29.

The RCC School of Nursing sweatshirt orders are due April 21. If you didn't get an order form there are some in the box outside my office.

Hope you had a wonderful Spring Break and come back relaxed and refreshed to put on the push which will complete the semester successfully.
