

Program Description

Insurance is protection against future financial loss from injury; illness, property damage, or liability due to losses of others. By purchasing insurance policies, individuals and businesses can receive reimbursement for losses due to car accidents, theft of property, fire damage, storm damage, as well as medical expenses and loss of income due to disability or death. The insurance industry consists of insurance carriers (or insurers) and insurance agencies and brokerages. Types of insurance include life or health insurance, automobile, homeowner, and commercial insurance.
