THE MAJOR:

The discipline of English includes the study of British and American literature, the various kinds of writing, and the history, structure and dialects of the English language.

Although accurate usage of the English language is essential to the college graduate, encountering the humanizing forces of languages and literature is the primary objective of the English major. The graduate of English is prepared for numerous career possibilities, including teaching, business, law, speech, communications, public affairs, media and writing. The combined liberal arts and analytical and writing skill preparation is useful in most graduate studies as well as library science, communications, and journalism. The demand for English teachers still exceeds the supply of graduates each year, and other students are finding success in related fields.
