THE MAJOR:

Philosophy is the oldest of the academic disciplines. It has always stood at the core of liberal education, and the writings of the great philosophers – Plato, Aristotle, St. Thomas Aquinas, Descartes, Hume and Kant – rank among the central and enduring achievements of Western culture. The study of philosophy acquaints students with the fundamental problems of Western thought and introduces them to the concepts and techniques necessary for independent philosophical thinking. It provides a broadening perspective for the various areas of specialization in the natural and social sciences and in literature and the arts.
